REV. SNODGRASS COMPARES RIGHT AND LEFT CHRISTIANS

SUB. TONIGHT "FISHING"

Revival at First Christian Church Drawing Big Crowds. Singing Evangelist Kay Fine.

"Fishing" will be the sermon subject used by Rev. Snodgrass tonight at the revival service which he is conducting at the First Christian church. Prof. J. A. Kay will also sing and there will be other special music.

Last night Mr. Snodgrass took for his subject "Left Handed Men." In handling the subject, Mr. Snodgrass made the left handed man to represent those in the church who are weak, or who possess but one or two talents. While the right handed would represent those who are stronger, possessing ten talents or more. Two examples of left handed men in the scriptures were given, one of them the seven hundred Benjamites and the other, Ehud at one time the savior of Israel from the rule of the Moabites.

He said in part:

"We find that Benjamin upheld Gibeah in her sin. Just like a good many people today who sin because somebody else does. Yes, I'll do wrong just because someone else does. I'll dance juts because someone else does, I'll go to hell just because come one else does, I'll act the fool just because some one else does. That is the way many people talk and live today. Others are afraid to live right fearing the sneers and jeers of the crowd. While it is true that there are some who would laugh tears of hellish merriment if you would come into the church, there is no doubt a wife or sainted mother who would weep tears of rapturous joy, and there is no battlement that I could not scale to gain the benedictions of my sainted mother's happiness. We also find the coward in the pulpit. I believe that a cowardly preacher in the pulpit is the most detestible creature on earth. I want to say that with all my faults, I have never yet been accused of being a coward. You cannot buy me. You cannot close my mouth against any sin I choose to denounce, be that sin among my own church members or among others. I you have any money to spend in that way, I serve notice o n you right now that there is not enough money piled up on Gods earth or enough nerve wracking blood curdling threats this side of hell to force me into a truckling subserviancy to veneered hypocrisy."

"If you cannot be an arce light you can be a tallow candle. If you can't be a California tree, you can be a rose geranium. If you can't be a general you can be a brave soldier in the rear rank. If you can't be president you can be an honest citizen. If you can't be something great, you can be something small. If you can't be right handed, you can be left handed. Be at least something, don't be a non-entity. Be at least one don't be a cipher."

The attendance is increasing nightly and the reports from the cottage prayer meetings held yesterday afternoon show a big increase over the attendance of the day previous. They are al so holding a men's meeting every morn ing in the church at 10:30 o'clock and a short prayer service is being held each evening in the Berean class room just before the church service. The pastor is directing his sermons this week particularly to the members of the church to get them ready for their part in the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. John Evans, living south of the ciyt and Hal Catterso left yesterday for Kansas to attend the American Royal live stock show.

OPENING DAY PATRONS AT TEA ROOM WILL COME AGAIN

Everyone who lunched at the "Come Again" tea room today on the opening day, will come again without further inducement. The menu served is excellent. Everything is real, first class unadulerated good, the breads, cakes and pies, made in the home kitchens of the best cooks in the South Methodist church membership and the lunch room service is superintended by a committee of these sae women.

The tea room is a business venture undertaken by the women fo the South Methodist church who decided that the giving of dinners periodically was a violation of business ethics and if a church needed money, the thing to do was open up a legitimate business and operate it under the same rules governing other business houses The rooms are quite attractive and the work has been done entirely by the church women. The color tones are red and black and the plan is artistic and practical. Many of the details of the service and operation will have to be worked out as the tea room patronage extends.

The menu is served a la carte at the popular prices and the rooms are open from 11 till 5 o'clock with hot lunches ready on quick notice. They also expect to cater to special orders for parties either to be served in the tea room or home orders. In addition they have a delicatessen sale and also a women's exchange where fancy work and made articls will b sold on commission.

Businss workers are especially catered to and quick service given. There are no restrictions on smoking if the men patrons so desire.

A big crowd patronized the tea room and the women are very gratified with the auspicious opening. The rooms are over the Wray hardware store on the north side of the square.

The tea room is under the management of Miss Bertha Beal and a committee of the church women with Miss Lou Garrett as cashier.

'ADVERTISING ONLY MAKES A STORE GO'

COUNTRY GENTLEMAN DECRIBES METHODS OF KANSAS MERCHANT

STUDY--USE TOWN PAPERS

Under the caption "Big Country Merchants," this week's issue of the Country Gentleman carries an article descriptive of the dry good business and methods of Charles Haines of Sabetha, Kan. Mr. Haines is a brother of Harvey L. Haines of this city and his frequent visits here have made him about as well known in business circles as the Maryville merchant.

The article tells in detail the business intentions of Charles Haines, from the time he quit school and went into the store to help his father, H. C. Haines, who first business venture was at Bigelow where he opened the first general store anywhere in the territory adjacent to St. Joseph and later moved to Sabetha.

Charles Haines thoroughly believed there is no such thing as drudgery in hard work and that running a small town store successfully is no more common place than operating a Fifth Ave. establishment. That is not only can be made to pay well from a monetery standpoint but the things from the city can be brought to the country and his methods of competing with mail order houses is told in the follow ing extract:

After Haines had been in the store for a year or two his father sent him to market in Chicago and New York City, so the boy might get in touch with the ways of the big manufacturers and jobbers there. He had five sisters, and that first trip he had com missions from each of them to buy for her some stylish things she wanted to wear, but which were not sold in any store in Sabetha.

"Now," said Charlie Haines to himself, "if my sisters want those stylish things from the fashion centers of the big Eastern cities, other women of Sabetha will want them too; and I am qualified to select and buy them for my sisters, I can select and buy them for the other women as well.

So, while he was buying for his sisters, he bought a lot of other garments just as good and just as stylish. The selection of those things, and the hazard of it, was his first mer cantile adventure. When he came back and the boxes and fine cloaks and dresses and suits were unpacking, a banker friend of the elder Mr. Haines came into the store. As he saw stack after stack of rich looking garments grow upon the counters, he took the father off into a corner and said:

"Henry, that fancy stuff can't be sold in this town. That boy of yours is going to put you on the rocks if you give him a free hand."

"I don't know about that," the father answered. "The business needs new ideas in it. The country is changing. The habits and ideas of the people are changing. Business methods and mer chandise are changing. I will give him a chance to see what he can do."

The fine garments sold quickly.

In those days when two or more country merchants came together, they usually grumbled about the mail order houses that were taking so much money out of the community. That was the complant of traveling salesmen too. The mail order houses were killing everything. Haines began to study this problem of the country storekeeper. He began to suspect that mail orders houses prospered largely because the country store keeper did not study and know the needs of his community or the priciples of merchandising.

A few years later the elder Mr. Haines retired from the business, and Charlie Haines took full charge of it, to do as he wished, and to work out his carefully matured plans.

"I knew of course, that I could not have an exclusive women's store if I had to depend upon the women of Sabetha alone," said Haines, in telling his story. "I must draw trade from the country for twenty and thirty and even forty miles round. That would have been almost impossible in the days of the horse and buggy and the farm wagon. But I saw the changes being worked by the automobile. I believed the day was at hand when the automobiles, becoming thicker and thicker in the country, were going to make the poor towns poorer and smaller and the better towns better."

"Without advertising heavily I couldn't make my store go," Haines said. "I have always advertised in our town papers and in all the little weekly papers in my territory. It is one of my hobbies to sell a trifle below the big store in the near by cities, but I never quote a price in my advertisements. The reason for that is I do not want to get the reputation of having a cheap store. I want the people to think of me only as carrying the very highest quality of goods. They know full well they must pay for them. Some storekeepers choose to be judged on the basis of cheap prices.

"I do not. I strive always for excellence, quality, service. I wouldn't want people to pay more than fair prices in my store, but I sell the high est priced goods because they are of the highest quality. And so I advertise quality only.

CAN OBTAIN COAL FROM HOME MINES

QUITMAN AND SUNNY BROOK FIELDS MAY BE WORKED

NO SOFT COAL IN CITY

Nodaway county has a few coal mines located near Quitman and Sunnybrook that could be operated and produced from fifteen to twenty tons of coal a day, in the opinion of Frank G. Shoeaker. These mines have not been in operation this year.

A suggestion has been made to the Chamber of Commerce to investigate this proposition. If a good many tons of coal could be secured daily, it will relieve the sohrtage in Maryville.

A car of soft coal billed for Glover & Alexander has been released by the regional director for the use of city water plant. The coal is being hauled form the Burlington tracks to the wat ter plant today. It will run the plant from a week to ten days. The plant has been using the coal from the public school and will use that source of supply unless more coal is received in Maryville.

One of the Maryville dealers has two cars of soft coal on the Wabash track and is making an efofrt to get them released.

There is no soft coal at all to be obtained from the Maryville dealers. Nearly all of them have some hard coal and coke yet to be sold.

All of the dealers here report that the coal bins at many homes in the city are practically exhausted and are urging the people to use as much wood as possible.

The coal will be hard to obtain all winter long is the prediction of nearly all the dealers. The only relief in sight at all is mild winter weather.

TREATY FAILS RATIFICATION

PRESIDENT MAKES NO PUBLIC COMMENT ON FAILURE.

UNABLE TO COMPROMISE

Washington, Nov. 20.—The peace treaty of Versailles erjected by the senate Wednesday today awaits the action of the president. The next move must come from the White House. The president is taking the failure of the ratification of the peace treaty very coldly. Those closest in touch with him declare today however, that he was still full of fight. It was announced that the president would not take any action or make any comment for the present.

Washington, Nov. 20.—After three ineffectual attempts to ratify the peace treaty had failed, the senate late last night gave up the attempts, and laid the treaty aside.

All compromise efforts to bring rati fication failed, the three resolutions of ratification all going down by overwhelming majorities. The Republican leaders apparently despairing of bring ing two-thirds of the senate together for any sort of ratification then put in a resloution to declare the war with Germany at an end.

Two of three ratification votes were taken on the resolution drafted by the Republican majority, containing reservations which President Wilson had told Democratic senators in a letter earlier in the day would mean nullification of the treaty. On each of the votes, most of the Democratic supporters of the treaty voted against rati fication.

The ratification resolution which would have required a two-thirds majority for adoption mustered only thirty nine votes to fifty five against it. Its supporters were thirty five Republicans, four Democrats and its opponents thirteen Republicans and fo rty two Democrats.

The result was to place the treaty, in a parliamentary status which its enemies declared amounted at least temporarily to rejection. Its friends, however, had hopes of reviving it at another session of congress.

After the ratification vote the Republicans permitted their resolution in exactly the form rejected to come up for further consideration, but as the session extended into the evening, the solid Republican line up which repeated Democratic compromise proposals showed no signs of yielding.

A Democratic move to have the treaty referred to a conciliation committee of Democrats and Republicans was defeated, the mild reservationists again lining up solidly with the other Republicans.

10:20 last night the peace treaty was laid aside by the senate after three roll calls on its ratification had failed to muste the necessary majority.

Republican leader Lodge declared that under the rules the senate action was final unless the treaty was withdrawn and then re-submitted by the president. The Democratic leaders did not agree with him.

After disposing of the treaty, Senator Lodge introduced a resolution proposing that congress declare the war with Germany at an end.

The resolution was referred to the foreign relations committee.

ST. LOUIS LEADS IN TOBACCO HANDLING

MORE WOMEN EMPLOYED

By A. T. Edmonston

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 20.—Missouri tobacco factories, large and small, located in St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Springfield, St. Louis Cape Girardeau, Sedalia, Ste. Genevieve, Joplin, Brunswick and other cities, in 1918 turned out plug and twist chewing and several varieties of smoking tobacco and cigarettes with a final wholesale and tax paid worth of $41,873,831, and there through broke all previous records for this state in this respect, declares a Bureau of Labor Statistics bulletin issued today under the direction of Labor Commissioner William H. Lewis. The value of Missouri's cigar output, 1918, is not included in the total which is given. That industry will be considered separately in a future bulletin.

The worth of chewing and smoking tobacco turned out St. Louis factories in 1918 alone reached the high total of $41,673,376, all Federal and other taxes paid. For years St. Louis has held first rank among all cities of the world for quantity, quality and total worth of chewing tobacco manufactured and sold annually and there is no reason to believe that this city lost its prestige in this respect during 1918.

The effect of the World war on Missouri's tobacco manufacturing is revealed by the fact that the 1914 output of plug and other forms of chewing tobacco had an aggregate tax paid worth of $31,063,327; that of the year 1917, $37,586,625; and now comes the record breaking total value of $41,873,031. In 1914 the capital invested in th e industry in Missouri including stock on hand, totaled $6,411,591; in 1917, $7,757,750, and in 1918 $8,957,145.

The close of the year 1918, announces the Bureau of Labor Statistics bulletin, found more women employed in the industry and fewer men than in 1914. The places of the men the 1917 and 1918 war drafts took from the business were readily and quickly filled by members of the other sex, who, in short order indicated through their activities and adaptability they could do the work just as well, and each year since 1915 has seen the number employed in the industry increase.

Total salaried employes and wage earners, 1914, 3,532, consisting of 2,018 men and youths and 1,514 women and girls.

Totaled salaried employes and wage earners, 1918, 4,260 consisting of 2,121 men and youths and 2,139 women and girls.

For the Wage earners there was a 30 per cent increase in weekly earnings, 1918 over 1917, and ten per cent 1916 over 1915. The daily time, 1918 was nine hours and the weekly fifty hours.

In 1917 Missouri tobacco factories, to manufacture 78,251,294 pounds of plug and twist chewing tobacco, snuff and smoking tobacco, consumed 43,634,448 pounds of stemmed and unstemmed leaf tobacco and setems and scraps, 15,136,318 pounds of licorice, 10,781,743 pounds of that now scarce commodity sugar, and 5,202,818 pounds of miscellaneous ingredients. The 1918 production, a little lower than that of 1917, consumed nearly the same quantities of raw materials and supplies.

FILE SUIT AGAINST PROMINENT MISSOURI ATTORNEY

Domestic Troubles of Former Lieutenant Governor Made Public by Suit.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 20.—Domestic troubles of former lieutenant governor of Missouri, Charles P. Johnson, said to be the oldest practicing lawyer in the city, came to light with the filing of a suit by Johnson's attorneys to recover articles of furniture, art works and a library, the total value of which is placed at $2,500, from his wife, Mrs. Anne Andre Johnson. It developed that the couple, both of whom are prominent in law and political circles, had separated, Johnson going to live with a son and Mrs. Johnson retaining possession of their home on Washington boulevard.

Mrs. Johnson, herself a lawyer, is 47 years old, and the daughter of Dr. M. Andre of Ste. Genevieve, Mo. Before her marriage to Johnson, who is 83 years old, she acted as his assistant in the practice of law. Mrs. Johnson was active in politics as a worker for the Bull Moose party.

Johnson was at one time city attorney for St. Louis, later circuit attorney and member of the state legislature.

The Farmer's 8-Hour Day

When organized labor, at the Industrial Conference, demanded the 8-hour day for all industries, the Nation's organized farmers smiled. When is Music, Music?

BY GREGORY MAINWARING.

Understand music. Then you'll understand phonographs. Music is not merely sound.

Music is a flooding, mysterious Power. It is generated by a dynamo—the artist's soul, his imagination, his personality. It is the expression of his feelings. It exists not so much in sounds—but in the accents which his feelings give those sounds—in what is called tone color.

Now do you see what the phonograph is up against? Sound, harmony, melody, rhythm—those are easy for its mechanical lungs to produce.

But soul-expression! Tone-Color! That subtlety of accent which gives music its electric quality!—These are something from another realm.

Only Edison had the courage to cope with the mystery of tone-color. Only to Edison did the great secret reveal itself.

That is why other phonographs have got no farther than the imitation of music. That is why the New Edison actually RE-CREATES music.

Come and hear the music of your favorite RE-CREATED on

Many Tires Are Broken Up on the Inside Before the Tread is Half Worn Out

On tires of this kind we build up the blowout, and add a heavy fabric body clear around on the INSIDE of the tire the same as we do in

Kramer's Double Fabric Construction Tire

Thousands of tires that we could not repair without this new method, can now be successfully repaired.

This extra fabric makes the tire 50 to 80 per cent heavier than when new, and practically puncture and blowout proof.

If you have some tires of this type, we can make you the best of tires for winter at a very low price.

AFTER SEVEN YEARS

Maryville Testimony Remains Unshaken

Time is the best test of truth. Here is a Maryville story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us.

Mrs. A. Wiedman, 409 E. Thompson St., says: "I had pains through my kidneys and my kidneys acted irregularly. These symptoms were always worse when there was a change in the weather or when I took cold. I used different medicines but without benefit and I despaired of ever getting better. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally recommended to me, and I got some at Love & Gaugh's Drug Store. In less than a month I was entirely free from the trouble."

OVER SEVEN YEARS LATER Mrs. Wiedman sad: "It hasn'e been necessary for me to use anything for my kidneys for some time. I think Doan's are the best kidney medicine made and words can't express my high regard for them."

MISSOURI HAMS SENT TO FRANCE

COUGHBOYS ADVERTISE

Praise of Soldiers Spread Gospel of Country Cured Fried Ham and Brown Gravy

Jefferson City, Nov. 20.—While up to this date the newspapers and magazines have credited the American soldier with putting in his full time in France either at fighting or making love, yet the latest development proves that the Missouri soldier took time to do a little advertising. Because of the praises of the Missouri country cured hams as repeated so often in France during the world war, there now comes a demand from our sister republic for this choicest of table meats.

Ehrnman & Lacroix, 52 Broadway, New York City, during the past year exported to France quite a few country cured hams. F. T. Ehrnman of the exporting company was recently at Marshall, Mo., looking, among other things, for Missouri country cured hams for shipment abroad. The French customers are especially interested in the "long cut" or "York cut," and will buy both the sugar cured and ordinary cured country hams.

The Missouri country cured ham is the finest dish in the world, and it is not strange that the world war would spread the gospel of fried ham and mahogany-brown gravy to the utmost parts of the earth. The Missouri State Board of Agriculture has for many years been fostering the larger killing of hogs at home, and the home curing of meat, both for the family and the local market.

Under the present outlook and condition of the hog market this fall and winter will certainly be a good time for the farmer to kill more of his hogs rather than sacrifice them on foot at prices bidding fair to fall below the cost of production.

would you pay $4.20 for a library of 300 worth-while books?

That's the volume of interesting reading matter that comes into your home with a year's subscription to a REAL metropolitan daily newspaper—THE ST. JOSEPH NEWS-PRESS.

The illustration above compares the bound files of THE NEWS-PRESS for last year with a copy of Webster's International Dictionary. The files weigh 92 pounds, the dictionary 14 pounds. The dictionary defines 400,000 words, THE NEWS-PRESS printed more than 50 times that many words.

The greatest bargain in literary history is a large daily newspaper — THE ST. JOSEPH NEWS-PRESS. You cannot afford to be without it if you live in NEWS-PRESS territory.

It would take 15 complete sets of Shakespere's works, nearly 30 Bibles, more than 200 "Uncle Tom's Cabins" to equal the volume of THE NEWS-PRESS for one year.

Yet this vast amount of reading matter (coming every week day) costs only $4.20 a year—about 1⅓ cents a day. No greater return for your money.

MOVING PICTURES USED IN FOREIGN MISSIONARY WORK

Thirty Prominent American Women Now on Way Abroad for Six Months' Stay.

The stereopticon and moving picture screen and the wall picture have been found to be one of the best means of Christianizing the women of the Orient, according to reports received from American foreign missionaries by the Interchurch World Movement, whose national headquarters are in New York City.

The value of the pictorial feature of evangelistic work in the Orient lies in the fact that it enables missionaries to reach the women who cannot read or write, and 90 per cent of Oriental women are said to be illiterate. Moreover, the best subjects are the old Biblical pictures because they need little explanation, their settings and costumes corresponding with the scenes to which the women of the East are accustomed. This sense of familitrity overcomes the feelings that Christianity is an alien religion, imported from a country of which she knows nothing.

The introduction of "still Biblical pictures in Chinese homes is another means of reaching the women and is especially easy because of the bareness of the walls of the average Chinese house.

A commission of prominent American women, headed by Miss Mary I. Jones, a well known Baptist missionary, is now crossing the Pacific to Japan for a six months' investigation of the possibilities of pictures in the Oriental missionary field. The commission is part of an interdenominational deputation of thirty well known American women who will study every phase of the missionary problem in the East and whose findings will be used by the Interchurch World Movement in the formulation of its world progran.

PLEADINGS FOR "BIG DICK" AND "PHOEBE" BRING COPS.

Kansas City, Nov. 20.—When the pleadings of crap shooters can be heard for two blocks it's time for the police to step in. This, at least, is the way Kansas City patrolmen looked at it early the other morning when they heard calls for "Little Joe" and "Phoebe" coming from the upper floors of No. 901 East Eighteenth street. The patrolmen did "step in" and as a result forty-one negroes, including many women, appeared in South Municipal Court the next morning. The pleaders for "Little Joe" and "Phoebe" were released by Judge Fleming, but James Evans, the game keeper, drew a fine of $100.

Three-fifths of Chinese speak practically one dialect, the Mandarian, and the educated among the other two-fifth are becoming familiar with it.

GLENDALE AND MT. PLEASANT PUPILS GIVE A PROGRAM

Vitalized Agriculture Students Demonstrate Ability in Farm and Stock Topics.

The Mount Pleasant and Glendale schools, north of Maryville gave a joint vitalized agriculture exhibit and program last night at the Glendale school.

The program was given as follows: Eugene Small, an exemplification of the plot of Mount Pleasant school; Harold Houston demonstrated the application of the drawing and prints in making a hob trough, Roy Harrington 11 years old, marked out the lumber needed, explaining the work as he went and Carl Scott gave a stock survey of the farm of Denver Loch.

A total survey of every farm in the Glendale district was given by Grace [illegible]er. This work showed a particularly clear understanding on the part of the children in this department. There are 2049 acres in the district and this survey, together with a list of the live stock, showed a splendid work on the part of the student.

Roy Harrington gave the summary of the Mount Pleasant district, showing the acreage, live stock and the increase in the past two years as well as the grain raised. John Gray read a composition describing a trip through the fields and orchards; Eugene Small exhibited some speciments and described the life of various insects; Pauline Loch made a treading for insects; Velma Gray gave a summary of the pure bred live stock in the Mt. Pleasant district and Roy Harrington made and showed how to use a Paris Green duster.

The land locating contest was won by the Mt. Pleasant school and the sewing contest by Helen Ulmer. In a board sawing contest by John Loch of the Glendale district and John Harrington of the Mount Pleasant district when both finished in 15 seconds, the prize was given to Mt. Pleasant for making the straighter cut.

DIRTY WATER

Has no horror for the housewife who has an Electric Washer. The water may be drawn in a tub, settled with powdered alum, cut with lye or borax, heated and replaced in the washer.

The washer does the rest.

The electric washer stirs the clothes in the boiling suds, allowing the hot water to be forced through them and removing all the dirt without scrubbing them to death on a rough board.

The finest materials may be safely washed in the electric, as there is no rough or sharp places in the machines to tear them.

POSED AS DOCTOR NEARLY SAW KAISER

BOLD SCRIBE CAME WITHIN ACE OF GETTING INTERVIEW

AMERICAN RAN A BLUFF

Obtained Entrance to Castle and All Was Going Fine When Real Physician Arrived

Amerongen. — (By mail). — How a correspondent representing a large American newspaper came within an ace of getting an interview with Germany's exiled kaiser by disguising himself as a physician has just become known and it now is the topic for discussion in this lonesome little Dutch village.

The kaiser was suffering from some indisposition and a prominent medical specialist was summoned from Amsterdam by telephone. The news of this fact must have leaked out and about the time that the doctor was expected to arrive there drove up to Count Bentinck's castle of refuge, in a mud-spattered automobile, an entire stranger, who informed the attendants that he was the doctor who had been called from Holland's metropolis. As no one in the castle was acquainted with the doctor, and as he was expected, no suspicion was aroused.

The stranger was shown into the library, where Dr. Foerster, the kaiser's personal medical attendant, who is now living at Amerongen, had an interview with him and explained the kaiser's symptoms. The "specialist from Amsterdam" undoubtedly had had a medical training and was able, owing to his knowledge of medicine to carry out his bluff.

Had not Dr. Foerster prolonged the interview and insisted on going into the most minute and elaborate details of the royal patient's illness and medical history all might have gone well.

But it was during this prolonged interview that Major Hirschield burst into the room and summoned Dr. Foerster to the hall.

The "specialist," jumping from his seat, exclaimed:

"Is the kaiser worse? I will see him at once."

He made his way into the hall, where he found himself confronted by a third man in civilian clothing, who excitedly shouted: "Imposter! Pig! Canine!"

The correspondent then realized that his coup had failed, but, putting a bold front on the situation, said, with the greatest calm: "I do not understand. Who is this person?"

"I am the specialist who was summoned from Amsterdam," stormed the man, sputtering out his name. "I can see the trick that has been played. Now I understand how it was that the tires of my car were all badly cut and burst open! I see the reason for the nails and glass in the road-day! Scoundrel! Swine!"

It was with difficulty that the doctor, on the verge of apoplexy, was restrained from "violently attacking" the smiling newspaper man.

"We can soon decide which is the medical specialist," said the major. "We shall search the pair, for perhaps neither is the man summoned."

By means of documents in his possession the second arrival was soon able to convince Dr. Foerster and other household officials that he was the genuine specialist, while cards and letters proved the first arrival to be an American newspaper correspondent.

British accounts say that little consideration was shown for this "enterprising but unhappy fellow." He was seized and subjected to the "most rough usage before being thrown bodily from the castle, to be escorted by guards, who continued to threaten him, to a safe distance from the house."

UNCLE SAM TO SPEND MANY DOLLARS TO STORE RICHES

Silver Bulging Out of Walls of Present Storehouse—A Three-Story Structure to be Erected

Washington, Nov. 20.—"Yankee Boodle" is not such a bad parody after all.

Uncle Sam has so much money these days that he is thinking nothing at all of spending one and a half million dollars just for a place to store his riches.

His present coffers are overflowing, his silver is bulging out the walls of his storehouses and, as for his gold, well, listen to what Assistant Secretary Rowe of the treasury department has to say about his request to congress for a $1,500,000 appropriation for the construction of a modern three-story structure to be erected in the court of the present treasury department building:

"Present vaults are antiquated. The walls of steel lattice work are pressed out of shape by the weight of silver stored in them. These should be moderninzed, made safe, and additional vaults should be provided for present and prospective requirements. Foundations are shaky and the cash room should be improved to allow adequate transaction of business."

NEWS FROM ALL OVER THE UNITED STATES

At the Washington conference between the operators and the representatives of the miners yesterday, Secretary of Labor Wilson said that both sides to the coal controversy were wrong to a certain extent, and declared that the 30-hour-week demand of the miners is impossible as well as the demand for a 60% wage increase. Speaking of what he termed 'the stand pat operators' the Secretary said: "They have not taken the right attitude either." Calling attention to the evil effects of the shortage of fuel throughout the country, the Secretary said that prompt action in settling the matter of wages and hours is urgently necessary, and he stated that, in order to accomplish this purpose, there must be concessions by both sides.

The first conviction in the Federal district of New York for profiteering under the amendment of the Lever act, was obtained by the Government yesterday, when a jury in the United States District court found Julius an Charles Roth, commission merchants, guilty of selling 20,000 pounds of sugar at 22½ cents a pound. This sugar was part of an consignment which the Roths purchased at 9 3-4 cents a pound. When the conviction was announced, Judge Knox intimated that he would send the convicted men to jail. He said that if the law was to have any good effect at all it could only be accomplished by the imprisonment of those convicted of profiteering, especially when they operated among the poorer classes.

Michael Friedsam one of the leading New York merchants, and chairman of the Fair price committee's sub committee on clothing and shoes, has declared himself opposed to fair price fixing for those commodities. Mr. Friedsam said yesterday "In view of industry and the relative slowness with which the ordinary channels of world trade are resuming their normal functions, I believe that any attempt to formulate a price list of clothing and shoes is not only impracticable but entirely impossible". Such price fixing, Mr. Friedsam said, would under the present conditions, "necessarily reduce the quality of the materials Mr. Friedsam also said that advertising columns of the papers furnished a competitive fair price list and that the trouble is that people are extravagant in their purchasing while output is interrupted by labor troubles He claimed that his committee had found but little profiteering by manufacturers.

The striking pressmen and feeders have expressed themselves as believing that they have won the strike which has partially tied up the magazine and book printing business for the past weeks. On the other hand John Adams Thayer, secretary of the Periodical Publisher's Association, has issued a statement in which he asserts that between three and four millions have been lost by the radicals and secessionists' and that a good part of the money was going to printers in other cities. "The publishers of the sixty and more periodicals and the many business papers now printed in other cities are not all likely to attempt to resume publication in New York until the situation is normal."

MISSOURI TO BUILD 32 MILES OF GRAVEL ROAD

State Highway Commission Approves Applications for Federal and State Aid in Construction

Jefferson City, Nov. 20.—The state highway commission has approved applications for federal and state road aid for the construction of thirty-two miles of gravel road. Taney county will build 17.65 miles, at an estimated cost of $48,475, and Hickory county 14.87 miles, at an estimated total of $36,245. The board also signed project agreements with the bureau of public roads for the construction of 5.31 miles of macadam road on the Sedalia-Smithton road at a total estimate of $60,759, and 1.66 miles on the St. Charles - Harvester road, Harvester east, estimated to cost $22,714.

Value of Seed Corn.

If seed corn costs $5 a bushel the seed used on an acre is worth about 60 cents. Just now it costs $2.50 to $3 an acre for seed wheat, $4.50 an acre for red clover, seed, and $7 an acre for Grimm alfalfa seed, at retail prices. And yet it is usually considered that $5 a bushel is a high price for seed corn.

That is the price asked for the good grades of pure corn at most leading seed houses, where a third of the whole crop is used for seed. It's worth the money, too, and yet how much more valuable is a bushel of corn selected from forty or fifty bushels as it is when field selected. A seed house would charge at least $15 a bushel for seed handled in such a manner. And they would sell it to men who raise the best corn and farm the best land to be had. Such men appreciate the value of good seed.

Corn is Harrison County's biggest crop, says R. J. Howat, county agent, and has long been the most profitable crop on the farm. In spite of its importance the matter of seed selection never occurs to a surprisingly large number of farmers until they are ready to start the planter in the spring.

Gathering seed corn is not out of season at all. Right now is the time to lay away seed for next year, if it has not already been done. Many farmers have theirs all picked and hung up in a safe place. These are usually the kind of men who are considered among the best farmers in the neighborhood, in other matters as well as in seed corn selection.

It would be hard to imagine a more profitable way to spend a day right now than out in the corn field with a sack hunting out the deepgrained, medium sized, well matured ears growing on sturdy, good stalks. Seed picked in that way and dried in the house where frost won't hurt it, may mean the difference between success and failure next year.

CITY FOLKS PREFER BEEF; COUNTRY EATS MOST PORK

Interesting Facts in Amount Consumed Given Out From the Department of Agriculture

Washington, Nov. 20.—More pork and poultry are consumed per capita in the country than in urban communities, while denizens of the cities eat more beef, veal and mutton than dwellers in the rural districts, according to a report made by the department of agriculture. This is announced as the first adequate information ever obtained on this subject.

The total consumption of meat per capita is 9 per cent greater in the country than in the city and the excess is observable in varying degrees in the various conventional geographic divisions. Consumption of beef alone is nearly two-thirds greater in the cities than in the country. In respect to veal and mutton also the consumption per capita is greater among the urban population than in the rural communities. The use of veal is 119 per cent and that of mutton 43 per cent greater in the cities than in the country.

What the country loses in comparison with the city in consumption per capita of beef, veal and mutton is more than compensated by its use of pork and poultry. The country consumes more pork and poultry per capita than the other meats by 150 per cent.

Consumption of beef, veal and poultry is higher in the north than in the south, but the southern section shows a larger use of pork. The west exceeds the other sections in consumption of beef and mutton, and is only slightly below the leading section—the north Atlantic territory—in consumption of veal, but eats less poultry than any of the other districts.
